RE: Support for Animal Welfare Institute Petition (#23-05)

Dear Food Safety and Inspection Service,

Please grant the petition (#23-05) filed by the Animal Welfare Institute and other animal protection organizations more than a year ago on May 16, 2023. It asks FSIS to require pig slaughter plants to install cameras inside the gondolas used to stun or kill more than 100 million pigs with carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>) gas each year. This would be an important yet relatively small step for slaughter plants to take, particularly those that already use video monitoring equipment in other areas of their facilities.

The absence of cameras in CO<sub>2</sub> gondolas violates federal law. The Federal Meat Inspection Act and the Humane Methods of Slaughter Act require FSIS inspectors to directly observe all methods of slaughter in order to determine whether they are being conducted humanely. Without the ability to observe pigs while they are being gassed with CO<sub>2</sub>, inspectors are unable to assess whether or to what extent the method is “rapid and effective,” as required by law.

In early 2023, activists released undercover footage from a camera hidden inside a CO<sub>2</sub> stunning gondola in a US pork plant. The video showed groups of pigs in the cage squealing and struggling violently for nearly a minute before finally losing consciousness. Since then, undercover videos taken in the United Kingdom and Australia have similarly revealed pigs in agony while being stunned with CO<sub>2</sub>. Even the Meat Institute’s recently updated animal handling guidelines acknowledge that “there are inconsistent results on how swine react to the induction of CO<sub>2</sub> anesthesia,” highlighting the importance of enabling inspectors to watch pigs during the entire slaughter process.

I urge you to grant the petition and initiate rulemaking to require pig slaughter establishments to install cameras inside their CO<sub>2</sub> stunning areas so that the entire interior of the gondola, and the animals held within, remain visible to FSIS inspectors at all times during the slaughter operation.

Thank you,
